Dear Mr. Bennett:

Enclosed please find your TS-Aligner. I'm sorry for the delay in returning it as well as for any misunderstanding you may have had with regard to our tool review procedure. And though I stand by the review, I apologize for not getting back to you when you called after our advertising department told you that the tenor of the review was unfavorable. I didn't wish to become embroiled in a protracted, unproductive argument, but I should have returned the call.

Please feel free to send press releases or information on any products you may develop in the future. I will look at any and all information in an objective, unbiased manner, as is our policy.

Sincerely,

Vincent Laurence
